Labor Unions and Strikes.

The end of the Fall River strike and the failure to attain the purpose for which it was inaugurated furnishes a text for comment on trades, unions and the object they were intended to reach. The intent of the trade union of to-day and that of the early ages was not indentical. The lodges of Free Masons were probably the first trade unions of which history furnishes anything like authentic account and those unions were the banding together of stone masons for the purpose of protecting the skilled workmen against imposters who had not thoroughly learned their trade. Through the protection secured by membership of the lodge or union these builders of masonry were enabled to travel and work in foreign countries and secure good wages, not because they fixed the wages themselves but because they were masters of their trade and one member of the craft recognized and fraternized with another at the moment of meeting. If Free masonry was operative to-day its object would be the same and it would be a trade union upon which no imposter could impose and with which capital would have no conflict. The trades union of our time has for its primary object the compeling of capital to pay such wages for labor as it shall agree upon and demand. The result of the Fall River strike affords the latest evidence that capital does not always accede to this demand. The stone masons of the middle ages banded themselves totent workmen-a perfectly legitimate proceeding because it secured the finished workman good wages and the employer good work. The trade union of modern times looks not so much to the skill of the workman and the A terrible storm passed over England on superiority of his work as to the at-sunday, doing much damage to crops and tainment of a stipulated remuneration-failing to secure this he is bound not to work at all and a strike follows Obedience to the rules of the Middle Age lodge of masons resulted in the abandonment of the work by all good the unskilled imposters. Florence has under cultivation in vineyards 87,000,000 acres, the average product of which ir 1,000,-000,000 gallons of wine, while the yield in exceptionally good seasons is as much as 1,500,000,000 gallons. Of the wine product something like sixty-six millions of gallons of the choicest vintages find their way to foreign markets, realizing $60,000,000, to which must be added $10,000,000 worth of brandy. The other four fifths of the crop is consumed in Florence. The destruction of so important an industry alarmed the nation, and the labors ALTHOUGH as far West as Salt of the scientific, stimulated by the offers of large rewards, have been directed to the subject. At every meeting of the academy of sciences papers are read showing the results of experiments. Disinfectants and poisons have been tried extensively. Al have been effectual in allaying the depredation, but none have extirpated the enemy. Tobacco juice is to-day. The contest will be close with | deadly to the insect but the cost the chances in favor of the Democrats of the remedy was found too although the inflation plank in their great. Strange as it may seems the phylloxera was carried to France from America in grape cuttings obtained in Illinois and Missouri. A French naturalist, M. PLANCHON, rightly conlight on the subject, resolved to visit America. In the vineyards of Illinois and Missouri, microscope in hand, he commenced his investigation. There the phy lloxera were found; but extraordinary as it seemed they had not appreciably injured the vines. He found that nature had counteracted the evil where she had created it. The vine had not only an enemy but a vigorous defender. Nature had not left it the prey of the little monsters that swarmed around its roots. An insect lion was there to destroy. The phylloxera says the London Telegraph reporting this achievment of science:

sweep the vineyards of fair France as clear of their terrible pest as the hedgehog sweeps the English kitchen of its swarms of of cockroaches. With tembling hand were specimens of the little bug collected; with tender care were they placed in huge chip boxes, and supplied with their favorite food; with delight almost averageagut were they first exlight almost extravagant were they first ex-nibited at the Academie des Sciences, and then turned out to fight the good fight in the hibited at the Academie des Sciences, and then turned out to fight the good fight in the devastated vineyards, wherein. If the y do not thrive and multiply, it will not be at any rate for want of a sufficient supply of their proper food. It is the old story, after all, which we have so often heard before, of the wonderful subtlety which nature ke ps her balances ever adjusted; There is not a creature living but serves some useful purpose. Files and cock-roaches, rats and mice and oteer such small deer are the very best of scavengers, doing for us on the lower scale the same work that in the Fast is done by the vulture and the crocedile. The small birds to whom the farmer is now forced by Act of Parliament to show a certain modicum of mercy, keep down our insect plagues. Had France allowed her little feathered friends to breed as freely as they breed in our English orchards and hedgrows, she would in all probability not have had to import the phylloxera eating actrus. We can never interfere with nature's work but to spoil it, and as we exterpate any living thing, so surely sooner or later, will some plague rise up to warn us of our folly. So bound together, indeed, is the whole world, that, could we succeed—which we cannot—in de: stroying a single atom, the universe would collapse. It is but of late that we have learnt could we succeed—which we cannot—in destroying a single atom, the universe would collapse. It is but of late that we have learnt how a country depends for its rainfall upon its forests, and how forest planting is the best of all modes of checking drought. So science, which cares for the greatest things, cares for the smallest also, and can, by the importation of a tiny bug—a dozen of which would lie on a sixpence—check a calamity which was sational in its extent, and at one time bade fair to threaten the prosperity of one of the most powerful nations in Europe.

Our vine growers therefore have a remedy at hand to check this pest. Our own country supplies a vigilent little sentinel to protect their vineyards. The vine growers association of California should at once investigate the subject, and commence the inportation of the acarus. The exportation of the phylloxera will be less difficult nowthan after it has multiplied a million-fold, which will be the case in a year or two longer,

SAN FRANCISCO, October 11th.-C. Adolph Low & Co. received a private letter from a correspondent on the South American coast this morning, containing the following: "The cap tain of the bark Osaca and three of his men were drowned in the surf at Champerico the day before yesterday while attempting to make a landing in a boat." The letter is dated Sept. 18th, and there can be no doubt that Capt. Wm. L. Howerth, of this city, is the person referred to in the letter. Capt. Howerth has a large circle of acquaintances in this city, and the news of his loss will be received with regret by all. During the rebellion the Captain did his country many important services as an officer in the United States navy. Chief among them was the blowing up of the rebe ram Albemarle, in conjunction with Lieut. Cushing. After the war the Captain came to this city, and for a long time held an important position in the Custom House. About two years ago he purchased the bark Osaca, and in command of her has since been engaged in the Contral and South American trade. He was born in Boston, Mass., and was about thirtyfive years of age. He leaves a wife, who had accompanied him on the late

NEW YORK, October 11th .- A letter from Henry Stanley, the explorer, dated Victoria Nyansea, Africa, March 1st, 1875, is published to-day, giving a highly interesting account of his 103 days' journey across the wilds of the African Interior. During the journey from Bagamo Gazi Kagohani, some of the party died from fatigue, famine, dysentery, and fever, while a number had to be left at Urimo, in the interior of Suna, with a people noted for their manly forms, and entirely naked. They had big chiefs, but were governed by a king. Pocock, the young English explorer, died at Chiwyn. Five of the party had died. After four days' march, several fights with wild tribes occurred, in which both sides suffered. The natives of Natura fought a three days' battle against the explorers. Stanley lost twenty-one men and thirty-five naives. Altogether, with war, famine and disease, 125 men.

SILVER CITY, Idaho, Oct. 11th .occurred in Owyhee county took place this morning. The fire-fiend did the work, and the principal portion of the town is in ashes. There are various rumors afloat in regard to the origin of the fire, but it seems to be a tolerably well settled fact that it started in Peter Owens' saloon, near the lower end of Main street, on the South side. All efforts to check the flames were unavailing, and in the course of half an hour every building from Boyles' store to Sommercamp's large saloon, on both sides of the street, was de-

The estimated losses of some of the parties are as follows: Wm. Hardiman, $20,000; Tom. Kittles, $15,000; Peter Owens, $10,000; L. B. Rinehart, $12,-009; W. V. Williams, $6,000; David Dorsey, $10,000; A. McAuley, $2,500; Ed. Borman, $2,000; D. Renay, $4,000; Miners' Union, $2,500; Constantine, $500. The other losses cannot yet be estimated, but the total destruction of property will not fall much short of $100,000. The only two stores that escaped were those of John T. Boyle and Brown & Herman, but they too carried out their merchandise, much of which is damaged and missing. The miners occupied the boarding and lodging houses, and there must be in the neighborhood of 4,000 people houseless and homeless, among whom are several families. The smouldering town is a sad spectacle to behold. The calamity does not appear to have dispirited the brave-hearted people as much as may be imagined, and many of them will rebuild as soon as they can obtain lumber.

ly completed. First street below Wilmington is not passable owing to the repairs on the zanja as it crosses the street.

The HERALD is always crowded with the live advertisments of live business firms.

The Cardona block foundation is finished, and the first floor joists are being laid.

Mr. D. Silverman left yesterday for San Bernardino, where he will exhibit his stock of jewelry for a few days. Gov. Pico and Mr. de Mondran are having a little newspaper war of their

W. M. Williams whose place is three miles Southwest of the city left at the HFRALD office yesterday a sweet potato which weighed just fif-teen pounds. Williams says he has a large number of these little spuds.

The steamer Mohongo will leave tomorrow for San Francisco. Passengers via San Pedro will take the train for Wimington at 10:15 A. M. and passengers via Santa Monica will take the stage at 2:30 P.M.

We would suggest to our City Fathers the propriety of placing on corners the names of the streets. Many strangers are arriving and it would be doing them a service to put up the sign-

Everybody reads the "wants" "for sale" "lost" and "found" column of the HERALD.

There is an increasing demand for the numbering of houses. At present no very definite directions can be given for finding any particular house, and a judicious system of numbering would obviate that difficulty.

The firm of Perpich & Co., of the Occidental restaurant, has been dissolved, and Antoine Perpich will continue the business. The Occidental has obtained an enviable reputation, and Mr. Perpich has a host of friends who will always patronize him.

Mr. James C. Kays, who has for some time been connected with the firm of Coulter & Harper, of this city, and very favorably known in our community, has been appointed a Notary Public vice Geller, deceased. He can be found at the store of Messrs. Coulter

Among the curiosities we observed and H Work. yesterday were some magnificent lemons of the thin skinned Sicily variety, the largest of which weighed seventeen ounces and measured twelve inches by fourteen inches. They were raised on M. Keller's place on Alameda street.

Among the latest receipts at the Southern Pacific Railroad depot were: two cars of flour for the Grange store; two cars of flour for Hellman, Haas & Co.; three cars of miscellaneous freight one car of flour for H. Newmark & Co.; eight cars of lime and cement for Perry, Woodworth & Co. Now is the time to buy a lot in the Brooklyn Tract. The position and the surroundings of this property make it very desirable in the real estate market and the choicest sites are in great demand. Mr. McAllister, the Secretary, at 37 Spring street, will give all the information in his power.

The condition of Main street where the sewer is being excavated should suggest to our City Fathers the necessity of a fixed system of engineering, which would prevent tearing up our principal streets about once a month to lay gas pipe, water pipe, or sewers. Water pipes, gas pipes and sewers should if possible, be fixed before the final grade is made.

The nobility of the aborigine was fully tested yesterday when two mounted policemen were required to conduct four ragged squaws to the ail. We think the noble red women have reason to complain that a hack was not hired for their greater convenience, and would respectfully refer the matter to the Indian commission, in session at Fifth Avenue Hotel.

We desire to call the attention of our City Surveyor to the fearfully dusty condition of Fort street, between Third and Fourth, though part of the grading is quite new. The work on the East side is now progressing, and we trust the City Surveyor will not accept it until it is sprinkled and rolled. We ask the property owners on that street to refuse to pay for the gravel dust until it has been made into a good

A large quantity of freight was shipped from the depot yesterday, among it the following: A large invoice of Haas & Co., to Anderson & Co., at Orange: a lot of flour to Herman & George, Anaheim from Hellman, Haas & Co.; 5000 lbs. of flour from the same firm to Colton; 74 bales of wool from the same firm to San Francisco; 56 sacks of walnuts from F. Vassallo; 30 sacks of corn from W. H. Beall; 33 sacks of castor beans and 4 bales of wool from H. Newmark & Co.; 200 to Me Fadden, Anaheim.

Mr. R. Slaney, the well known boot and shoe dealer, corner of Los. Angeles and Commercial streets announces his stock for sale, away below cost. The stock is fashionable and complete and we heartily commend it to all needing foot covering. This sale has been in contemplation for some time, and now Mr. Slaney announces a grand clearing out sale of of boots and shoes, suitable for both sexes and all ages. It is no deceptive bait, but a genuine, old fashioned sale at very low figures, We advise our readers to go immediately before this immense stock is culled and get the first pick.

The old farm-gate hangs, sagging down, On rusty hinges, bent and brown; Its latch is gone, and, here and there, It shows rude traces of repair.

The old farm-gate has seen, each year, The blossom bloom and disappear; The bright-green leaves of sp ing unfold, And turn to Autumn's red and gold.

And, in and out, with rapture swung, When their young hearts were good an when hope was fair and faith was sure.

Told the story, always new; Have made their vows; have dreamed of bliss And sealed each proneise with a kiss. The old farm-gate was opened wide To welcome home the new-made bride, When lifacs bloomed, and locusts fair With their sweet fragrance filled the air.

That gate with rusty weight and chain Has closed upon the solemn train That bore her lifeles form away, Upon a dreary Autumn-day. The lichens gray and mosses green Upon its rotting posts are seen; initial, carved with youthful skill, Long years ago, are on it still,

Yet dear to me above all things. By reason of the thoughts it brings, Is that old gate, now sagging down, On rusty hinges, bent and brown. -Eugene J. Hall.

Will Remain Until Further Notice.

The two weeks time which Dr. Aborn purposed remaining in Los Anreles has about expired; but owing to miscellaneous freight from Hellman, the fact that his practice has been so extensive, and evidence that so many still wish to consult him, he hereby announces that he will remain until further notice, so that all who wish may have an oppertunity of consulting him.

CAST IRON SEWING MACHINES

Is what some of our sewing machine agents are pleased to call the

REMINGTON

SEWING MACHINE.

Perhaps they may wish a harder name for them when their merits are fully known to the people of Southern California, Though hardly three months since its introduction in Los Angelee, it has already become a pet machine, and in ease in running and perfection in construction it stands unrivaled. In the Eastern States it has already taken the front rank in sewing machines, and is fast taking the place of the older and harder run ning machines. In the manufacture of their family machines they have increased from 49,000 to 85,-000 in the past four months, and to-day with their large facilities for turning out more than 250 machines per day, the Remington folks are 2,000 behind in filling orders and are obliged to enlarge their works.

In the manufacture of their rifles, revolvers, agricultural implements, type writer, etc., their name has become a synonym of perfection in work and material, and everyone knows when it bears the stamp of Remington it is good and up to-not behind-the times. Do the Singer folks base the merits of their machines upon the sales of former years, the Remington base theirs upon the merits of r ady to try it against any machine in the

se26 lm d&w WONDERFUL

ARITHMETICAL CALCULATION! Dr. ABORN A Sewing Machine Factory Turns out One Hundred Machines per day

More than it is Capacitated to Make!!!

THE SINGER M'F'C CO'S Sewing Machine Agent has no doubt that the Remington agent justly anticipates harder names for his "pet" machine when it is understood that it is neither "The Singer Improved" nor an "improvement on the Singer." By referring to one of our dailies I find that this soft, noiseless, "pet" machine has been introduced into Los Angeles at a much earlier date than the agent states. (This may be owing to a defect of memory).

The Remington agent has made a rather startling statement to the public in his latest advertisement to this effect—that the Remington S. M. Co. in the manufacture of their family machines have increased from 49,000 to 55,000 in the past four months, and in the same paragraph says that the factory is only capacitated to make 250 per day; thus allowing every working day during said period I find that he gives the "Remington folks" eredit for 100 machines more per day than the Factory, with all its "large facilities," can produce—a pretty hard strain ou the most fertile imagination.

The Remington Agent asks the "Singer folks" a very important question, namely: Do they base the merits of their machines upon the sales of former years? As I am the only representative of the Singer Mig. Co. in this county I shall answer the question. The Singer Mig. Co. points with just pride not only to their sales in the past but also to the fact that those sales have constantly increased up to the present. I hold to the rule that the comparative sales of a machine constitutes a correct criterion of its merits and a true index of its popularity.

I shall have no difficulty in tracing back the history of the Singer Sewing Machine, for

It Never Changed its Original Name. And in showing from the best authenticated public reports that it excels all others for all purposes, I will only go back to the year 1871. In that year the Singer Mnfg. Co. sold

181,260 Machines. in 1872 they sold 219.758:

In 1873 their sales reached 232,444,

And the authenticated report for the year 1874 (the latest obtainable) shows that the LATEST IMPROVED NEW FAMILY SING-ER MACHINE

Stands Unrivaled on this Continent. The following is a correct statement from THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.

241,679 MACHINES Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co... Howe S. M. Co.... Domestic S. M. Co... Weed S. M. Co... Grover & Baker... Remington-Empire S. M. Co. "If the number sold of any machine be a criterion of its merits, The Singer carries off

the paim."
